Year Group: 4

email:- year4@staugustines.dorset.sch.uk

Well – here we are.

Week 14 of home learning and the last week of Year 4. It has certainly been a strange academic year, hasn't it?

What are your favourite memories? What did you miss most? Is there anything you wish you could have done?

Thank you to the people that got in touch last week. If you sent me a playground plan, I forwarded it on to Colin to be entered into the competition. Don't forget to vote when you get the chance.

So this week, I have tried to finish the year off with some thoughts about next year. It will be a time of change and some of you may be a bit worried – Don't be. It will all be fine.

I have spoken to Mr Trevett and told him about how lovely you are. He is looking forward to meeting you all. I am sure you will like being in his class and learning everything he will teach you.

RE:

This week we will be concentrating on the Gospel Values that we follow in school.

WAGBAT: understanding the gospel values

There are 8 Gospel Values that we try to follow on school.

Can you remember them all? Write a list and try and get all 8.

Just in case you can't remember them all, I have written a list at the end but try not to look until you have had a really good think.

*Task	Task	Task
Write a definition for each one. You could use a dictionary if you need to.	Write a description of each one showing what it means.	Find out what each one means and then write a sentence for each word showing what it means. Eg; Joe showed integrity by completing his homework even though he didn't have to hand it in.

In addition to this, CAFOD are having a Summer of Hope with a variety of different activities for you to do. We are not asking for it to be a fund raising appeal, but we will be asking you to think about how Hope fits in with the Gospel Values.

You could look up some of the activities here.

English:

WAGBAT: creating a list to reflect on the year 4.

Well now, I have been teaching for a very long time and this is certainly the MOST bizarre school year I can ever remember.

And you have lived through it and survived it and been amazing.

I know that you all have new skills and knowledge that you didn't have when we started back in September. Even I have learnt new things too...!

Today I want you to think about everything you have learnt this year – both in school and during home schooling.
Create a list.

*Task	Task	Task
Create a list of all the new knowledge and skills that you now have.	Create a list of all the new knowledge and skills that you now have. Explain whether you learnt them at school or during home learning.	Create a list of all the new knowledge and skills that you now have. Explain whether you learnt them at school or during home learning. Are there any other skills that you wish you had learnt?

Topic:

WAGBAT: being creative.

This week I would like you to be creative.

Starting today with some drama/acting/play writing.

*Task	Task	Task
Write a play or piece of drama. Think about how you could produce it.

Could you use soft toys, Lego characters, dolls or maybe get together (outside and socially distanced, of course) with some friends to perform it.
You could even write it together if you are allowed to Facetime or video call your friends.

Gospel Values: Forgiveness, kindness, integrity, humility, justice, non violence, compassion and courage.
